STEWART'S PLAIN ITALK.

The following is an extract from Senator Stewart's speech, delivered in the Senate last Friday, copied from the Congressional Record:

If this bill should be passed, (the Voorhees bill) and silver reduced in price to 20 to 36 cents an ounce, there would be one acclaim from Wall street and Lambard street and all their agents, in and out of office, against the use of that "base metal" because it is only worth 20 cents an ounce. Give them that largument, give them that power, and then silver is doomed, gold monometallism is established, and there will be nothing left for the people of the United States but to rise in their might, break the chains with which gold contraction has bound them, and make their own money. It may not be silver, but it will not be gold.

You can not continue this precess for twenty years. If you could you would reduce the people so that they could not resist. You have not stopped the common schools; you have not crushed the ambition of all the young men of the country; you have not blotted out the spirit of liberty; you have dammed it up a little; but this damming up of the spirit of liberty and of the aspirations of men will only make the torrents more terrible when they find that you are determined to make them slaves. We know we have four years of bondage, because the executive is a monometallist, We understand that, But these four years will be a season of education, and the voice of the people will be heard.

What a mockery to speak of the Democratic or of the Republican party, when both of those parties have pledged themselves to bimetallism and gone before the country, and then they convene in extra session to give the he to all their professions. They say they will give us bimetallism, They promise that from this Senate, and say to Wall street and Lombard street, "Wait a little and you will be fully satisfied. We will give the people a little taffy, but we will give you the power to crush them perpetually."

It is the paid press you hear talking now; you are surrounded by bankers, you are surrounded by money influences. The masses of the people have not been heard, They will not be deceived. The people are watching our proceedings, and they will mark those who, when they ask for bread, give them a stone. They ask for free coinage, and we say we will give Wall street and Lombard street monometallism, and then we will consider their claims.

"True, we promised; but we are politicians, and we do not keep promises. We have contempt for you. Our object is to deceive the masses, to acquire office, and then betray." That is the position of the two parties here, to strike down silver; but the position of the Republican party is more humulating than that of the Democratic party. They say that this was a compromise, and without giving a reason they come here to break the compact. The people will understand it, and mark them.

The Democratic party said they could not vote for the compromise because they were for free coinage, but Wall street demands that the compromise on free coinage shall not be repudiated, that their greedy demands shall be satisfied, and the people's cause shall be buried forever. It will not be. This will not pass without a substitute.

It's fun to see the way the stinging District Attorney of Ormsby County. Will practice in all Courts. Sacramento Bee goes for the Attorney General of Cal, From all accounts the Attorney General of Cal, is considerable of a failure.

The passage of the Wilson Bill in the House has added two million votes to the Peoples' Party. On with the dance.
